I. Introduction or Forward (A brief account on the unit's origin and its accomplishments over the years and a statement about the current period covered)

The 128th Forward Support Battalion was expanded, reorganized, and redesignated on 1 March 1992 as the 128th Support Battalion and remained assigned to the 28th Infantry Division. The Alpha, Bravo and Charlie Companies of the 128th FSB were formed from companies/platoons of existing units:

Alpha Company became the distribution company and was formed from a transportation platoon (Detachment 1 (TMT), 228th Supply and Transportation Battalion), requiring total MOS reclassification throughout the unit. This was the most drastic change in the battalion, as soldiers were reassigned jobs as ammunition handlers, warehouse operators, and fuel handlers.

Bravo Company was an existing maintenance company (Charlie Company, (Forward Support), 728th Maintenance Battalion). Although the soldiers had maintenance MOS' s there was considerable reclassification in the types of maintainers required (now required to support Mechanized and Armored Battalions).

Charlie Company was an existing medical company (Bravo Company, 103rd Medical Battalion). Although their change was not as extreme, they too were reorganized to meet the needs of supporting a Mechanized Infantry Brigade. Charlie Company formed into three platoons: Headquarters, Ambulance Platoon and the Treatment Platoon.

The HHD of the 128th FSB was a newly organized unit, taking command and control of the three newly reorganized, redesignated companies.

On September 2007, the 128th Forward Support Battalion was expanded, reorganized, and redesignated as the 128th Brigade Support Battalion (BSB) in an effort to reduce the number of Heavy Brigades within the Army. The push was to increase the role of the National Guard as a lighter modular force capable of integrating into a variety of possible military configurations and missions. The HHC of the 128th Brigade Support Battalion was transformed from the existing headquarters element of the HHD of the 128th Forward Support Battalion as the Iron Brigade, 2BCT, ushered in the sweeping changes of converting the heavy brigade into a light infantry brigade.
